TEN THOUSAND SQUARE MILES UNDER WATER

Two Hundred Lives Lost Is Believed Conservative Death Toll Estimate

$500,000,000 DAMAGE

Secretary Hoover Arrives in Heart of Mississippi Flood District

(By International News Service)

Ten thousand square miles—an area almost as large as the state of Maryland—inundated.

Two hundred lives, according to conservative estimates, have been lost. Several hundred persons, many of whom will die, are now ill of pneumonia and other diseases caused by exposure and privation.

One hundred thousand persons have been evacuated from the flooded areas in Mississippi, Arkansas, Illinois, Tennessee, Missouri and Kentucky. Fifty thousand more are in danger zones awaiting rescue.

Property damage may total $500,000,000.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover, in charge of government relief work, is riding the crest of the flood to Vicksburg, where he is expected to board a hydroplane for a first hand survey of the stricken area.

Arkansas City is the latest town to feel the wrath of the flood. Its 2,000 residents have been evacuated, many of them stranded on levees and in trees. Water 10 feet deep stands in the streets.

Natchez, Baton Rouge, New Orleans and four cities along the Mississippi must wait at least a week to know their worst fate, as the crest of the flood has not yet reached the southern stretches of the river. It travels at the rate of 50 miles a day and is now approaching Vicksburg.

Vicksburg, Miss., April 26—Having whipped into shape in a single day the greatest peace time relief organization in United States history, Secretary of Commerce Hoover arrived today in the heart of the Mississippi flood region.

His first purpose was a first hand survey of conditions in the Red Cross refugee camps which are caring for upwards of 150,000 homeless in Louisiana and Mississippi. The great question is what will happen to the levees in the lower river with the arrival of the crest, Hoover said.

HERBERT HOOVER

Reaching Greenville, Miss., the hardest hit city in the entire valley, shortly before daylight the Chisca, government tug, halted only long enough for a hurried survey of the stricken area from motor launches before resuming her journey to Vicksburg, the clearing house for rescue work for the entire flooded area south of Memphis.

New Orleans Menaced

With the crest of the raging flood a little below Helena, Ark., at noon today, Hoover looked southward with apprehensive eyes. To the north the worst has passed. The Mississippi and its tributaries still are rising at isolated points but the great swell has subsided in every stream and threatens no further extension of the flooded area below Vicksburg. However, the situation looms more menacing hourly, with New Orleans, the thirteenth city of the area, imperilled by the ever rising waters.

After survey of the Mississippi from the Chisca's wheel house of virtually the

POLA NEGRI

CHERBOURG, France, April 26—"The prince is the greatest love of my life and I am looking forward to the greatest happiness of my life."

Such was the greeting of Pola Negri, famous and beautiful Polish film star, upon her arrival from New York upon the liner Aquitania. She was referring to Prince Serge Mdivani, to whom she is engaged, and to whom she will be married at her chateau near Paris early in May.

Prince Serge also was a passenger upon the Aquitania.

Pola received newspaper correspondents while breakfasting in her suite on the liner. The prince was present and nodded approval while his fiancee talked.

"My love for the prince is greater than my love for my first husband," declared the screen star. "It is greater than my love for Rudolph Valentino or for Charles Chaplin.

"We shall be married at my chateau at Reuil some time between May 5 and May 7. It will be a very quiet ceremony. In fact, we have not yet decided upon all the details.

Ex-Police Commissioner Describes How Mrs. Snyder Confessed Mate's Murder

McLaughlin Declares Wife of Slain Man Finally Admitted She "Wanted To Tell the Truth;" Testifies Woman Said They Were Not Living Happily

Courthouse, Long Island City, N. Y., April 26—Ruth Brown Snyder's confession that she helped her lover, Henry Judd Gray, murder her husband, Albert, early in the morning of March 20, 1927, was read to the jury this afternoon by District Attorney Richard S. Newcombe.

Courthouse, Long Island City, N. Y., April 26—George W. McLaughlin, former police commissioner of New York City, took the witness stand today at the trial of Ruth Brown Snyder and Henry Judd Gray and related the circumstances which resulted in the alleged confession of Mrs. Snyder that she assisted her lover in the brutal murder of her husband, Albert Snyder, in the early hours of March 20.

Immediately preceding former Police Commissioner McLaughlin as a witness was Milton C. Pilgeon, of Bellaire, L. I., who told of a house party that Snyder, his wife and their nine-year-old daughter, Lorraine, attended on the night of March 19. He testified that:

"Mrs. Snyder came out to the kitchen while I was pouring the drinks. She said: 'I am not feeling very well tonight—will you give my drinks to Albert?'"

Talks to Woman

Albert got the drinks and some time later that night was bludgeoned to death as he lay in a stupor in bed in his own home.

McLaughlin testified he went to the Snyder home on March 20 about 11:30 a. m. He said he saw Mrs. Snyder in bed in her daughter's room. He went into the room where Snyder lay murdered. The room was upset. Elsewhere in the house dresser drawers had been pulled out and the house was in a generally disordered condition.

"I went to Mrs. Snyder and asked her for information," he testified. "She said she came home about 2 a. m. from a party with her husband and daughter. She said she went to sleep and some time in the night a big man with a black moustache seized her.

"'Did you make an outcry?' I asked her. She said she did not. This, of course, made us even more suspicious.

Sheds Tears

"Mrs. Snyder shed a few tears when she was told her husband was dead."

Mrs. Snyder regarded McLaughlin coolly, almost disdainfully.

"I asked Mrs. Snyder why she didn't make an outcry, when she knew that her husband had a revolver under his pillow," McLaughlin said. "She had had no explanation."

McLaughlin said that he then left the Snyder home, but came back at 8 o'clock that night.

Detectives told him that they could not find any marks that an outcry had been made to the house.

"I confronted Mrs. Snyder with this statement and said we could not find any reason for it be a robbery," McLaughlin said.

"I told her the party responsible knew the lay-out of the house. I asked her about her relations with her husband. She said that they were not living happily, and that he had shown her

CONNEAUT BOY CONVICTED OF CHILD'S MURDER

Verdict Returned After Jury Deliberates for Less Than Two Hours

MERCY NOT RECOMMENDED

Lad, Charged with Double Slaying, Shows First Uneasiness Today

Jefferson, April 26—Floyd Hewitt, 16-year-old Conneaut boy, today was found guilty of the murder of little Fred Brown, Jr., 5, at Conneaut, last Feb. 14.

A jury of eight men and four women brought in the verdict at 1:21 p. m. today after getting the case at 11:30 a. m.

Mercy was not recommended.

Hewitt was tried for the alleged murder of Fred Brown, Jr., 5, at Conneaut last Feb. 14. On that date, Mrs. Fred Brown and her little son were found beaten to death.

Hewitt is also charged with killing Mrs. Brown.

The youth was calm as he prepared this morning for his final day in court. He was neatly groomed and talked freely with Sheriff F. S. Sheldon.

Shows Uneasiness

During Monday's session of court, when attorneys for state and defense presented arguments to the jury, Hewitt showed the first visible sign of uneasiness during his trial which is now in its fourth week.

It was Attorney H. J. Redmond's description of the murders and the subsequent plea to the jury to "send Hewitt to the electric chair" which caused the accused youth to fidget about uncomfortably in his chair.

"We ask you to withhold mercy from this verdict," said Redmond, who is aiding Prosecutor C. B. Cook in the trial. "If, in this evidence you find any mercy that he (Hewitt) accorded Little Freddie Brown," he continued, "then I want you to extend the same mercy to him. I want him to have all mercy that he showed that helpless little child."

COUNCIL TO PROTECT ITS BUDGET WITH LEVY

Resolution Passed Providing 3½ Mill Assessment; No Tax Increase, Claim

That the city may be protected against having the budget for operating expenses cut below the $200,000 mark by any budget commission in the future, City Council last night took advantage of a law passed by the last legislature, and adopted a resolution providing for a 3½ mill levy on all taxable property in the city. It was explained by City Solicitor Geran that the measure was purely precautionary and would not result in an increase in the taxes. "It will, however, prevent any budget commission of the future from sacrificing the needs of the city for those of the county or schools" the city solicitor said.

Under this law, the solicitor explained, the budget commission must allow the city four mills for operating expenses. The only requirements are that a copy of the resolution as passed by council, be certified to the county auditor before Aug. 10 of this year.

City Solicitor Geran stated this morning that while the measure would prevent the budget commission from cutting the budget for operating expenses under $200,000, it would not materially increase the amount of money the city will receive.

SOLDIER KILLED

The girl at first told police she shot the soldier when he entered the place drunk, and threatened her. Later, after Karpinsky died, she said Nordi did the shooting, and this story was substantiated by a soldier companion of Karpinsky.

MAGAZINE ASKS PRESIDENT TO DECLARE SELF

Editor of The Forum Challenges Coolidge To State Position on "Third Term"

New York, April 26—One magazine having successfully drawn fire from Governor Smith on the religious issue, another magazine is today making an effort to draw a definite statement from President Coolidge on the question of a third term.

Henry Goddard Leach, editor of "The Forum," announced today that a letter challenging President Coolidge to declare his position on the third term will be delivered to the president today.

The letter of challenge to the president was written by John Carter, a New York journalist, and will appear in the next issue of the magazine.

Reviews Tradition

It reviews the third term tradition in American politics, especially in the Republican Party. The letter puts a number of direct questions to the president, among which the following are regarded as of vital importance:

"Do you believe that the tradition of American politics is hostile to a substantive third term in the presidency?"

"Do you believe that your re-election would be in harmony with the spirit of the common law which has given you your present power?"

Do you consider that your silence in no way infringes the dignity of the presidential office?"

"Will you accord the electorate the leisure to consider whether it may be called upon to break with the traditions of one hundred and forty years of presidential office?"

Says Silence Unfair

Henry Goddard Leach, editor of "The Forum," declares that the letter is "friendly and sympathetic in tone throughout, but minces no words in emphasizing that the American tradition is against a third term."

The letter states that the presidential silence is not fair to the electorate, who have the right to know well in advance whether they must decide on the third term issue, and it also declares that the president's failure to speak "confuses and embarrasses" presidential aspirants in both parties.

CITY TAKES STEPS TO PURCHASE FIRE PUMP

Ordinance Providing $15,930 Bond Issue Passed by Municipal Legislators

First steps in the purchase of a new pumper for the fire department were taken by City Council last night, when an ordinance providing for a $15,930 bond issue was adopted. The price will include a 1,000 gallon pumper fully equipped. Following the sale of the bonds, bids will be asked for.

Present plans provide that the new truck will replace the machine now being used at No. 2 station and which is badly in need of repair. Fire Chief McFarland state today that when the new pumper is installed, the one now in use will be torn down and rebuilt. This has been impossible in the past because of the lack of an extra machine. The rebuilt pumper will then be used to replace either of the other two pumpers when in need of repair.

CITY COUNCIL WILL CONTINUE GAS RATE WAR

Ordinance Passed To Employ Columbus Engineer and Pay $500 Toward Cost

LONG FIGHT REVIEWED

Municipal Legislators Decide To Resume Battle; Will Seek Refund

Taking the stand that it would not be keeping faith with the citizens of Marion if they were to give up the fight before obtaining the refund as provided for in the Logan Gas Co. City Council last night voted to continue the battle by adopting two ordinances, one providing for employing H. B. Allensworth, engineer and accountant, of Columbus, and the other providing for a fund of $500 to pay the city's portion of the cost.

Allensworth who has acquired some reputation through a victory in a recent fight with the gas company at Columbus, will audit the books of the Logan Gas Co. and will prepare charts and other matter which can be presented at the hearings to be held before the State Utilities Commission. He will also serve as a witness. The resolution provides that the engineer shall receive one fourth of the $500 within 30 days after the passage of the ordinance; one half after he has completed the charts and other statistics and one fourth after the completion of his testimony before the commission.

Case Reviewed

Accompanying the ordinances which were prepared by former City Solicitor Trent G. Mouser, Jr. who has been retained, without charge by the city as assistant counsel in the gas controversy, was a communication in which the fight was reviewed from its start to the present time. According to the former solicitor, the gas company started collecting under bond, June 30, 1925. Mr. Mouser also stated in the communication that W. R. Weiss, appraisal engineer of Cincinnati, who was employed by the group of cities, including Marion, waging the rate war, would continue his work of appraising the property of the company. According to Mr. Mouser the company claims a valuation of $750,000,000 while the real valuation, according to Weiss, is approximately $8,000,000.

ELDERLY AND UNLOVED HUSBAND SHOOTS RIVAL

Man, 63, Breaks Pact with Wife, 38, Permitting Nightly Love Excursions

Trenton, N. J., April 26 — Charles Price, 63, confessed today in Lambertville to killing Edward Masterson, 28, last night as the latter drove in a carriage with Price's 38-year-old wife, Laura.

Price was arraigned for murder before Justice of the Peace Elmer Smith in Lambertville. In the same office, less than a month ago, the husband and wife signed a compact by which she was permitted to use Price's buggy for nightly drives with Masterson.

The elderly man declared, after his arrest, that he hitched the carriage for his wife as usual last night, and bade her good bye. Then, determined to end the affair, he loaded a revolver which he bought 15 years ago, and stalked all night through the isolated road of Amwell Township until he came upon the couple.

Planning only to wound Masterson as a warning, Price is quoted as saying, he fired three shots. One penetrated the younger man's back and pierced his heart.

DAVIS, WOOSTER MEET DEATH IN LANDING PLANE

Ship Crashes as Aviators Prepare It for Competition in $25,000 Contest

INQUIRY IS ORDERED

Third Similar Accident to Prospective Transatlantic Fliers Within Year

Langley Field, Va., April 26—The proposed transatlantic flight of Lieut. Commdr. Noel Davis and Lieut. Stanton H. Wooster came to a tragic end here today.

The accident occurred at 6:35 o'clock this morning, five minutes after the plane had taken off.

While on a final test before hopping off on a non-stop flight from New York to Paris to win a $25,000 prize, Davis and Wooster were killed when their plane crashed while making a forced landing in the water near here.

The plane, the "American Legion," which they were to use in the long flight, was wrecked.

The bodies of Davis and Wooster were pulled out of the wreckage and sent to the Naval Hospital at Norfolk.

Inquiry Ordered

The commandant of Langley Field has ordered a board of inquiry to investigate the fatal accident.

Davis and Wooster had planned to start within a few days on the big hop across the Atlantic and were putting the final finishing touches on the plane, and were sending it through a series of rigid tests to fit it for the trip.

Davis, a naval reserve officer on active duty, had been in charge of all naval reserve air activities, and with Lieutenant Wooster had obtained special leave to attempt the New York-Paris hop.

Davis was a graduate of the Naval Academy, being No. 1 man in the 1914 class. During the World War he served on the staff of Rear Admiral Strauss, in charge of the North Sea mine barrage.

Resigns from Navy

After the war Davis resigned from the navy, but joined the naval reserves and was put in charge of the reserve air unit at Squantum, Mass. Davis was so successful with the reserve unit that he was called to Washington and placed in charge of this branch of the navy's bureau of aeronautics.

Wooster, chosen by Davis as his companion on the proposed flight, was born in Connecticut in 1895, and was graduated from the naval academy in 1915. He had been on active duty in the bureau of aeronautics.

Davis not only proposed to attempt the New York-Paris flight, but raised the necessary funds from several wealthy sportsmen to finance the hop. The American Legion was actively interested in the Davis flight and for that reason the plane was named for the legion.

Plane Specially Fitted

Davis was to compete for the $25,000 prize offered for the first successful New York-Paris flight by Raymond Orteig of New York.

The plane, a bombing type similar to those in use in the navy made its first flight about three weeks ago near the factory of the Keystone Aircraft Co. at Bristol, Penn. The plane had been fitted specially for the Atlantic flight with extra fuel tanks and reinforced structural supports.

From Bristol Davis flew to the Anacostia Naval Air Station here, where the plane was inspected by Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of naval air service. Then Davis went to Hampton Roads for test flights.

Tests Satisfactory

The Hampton Roads tests were most satisfactory, and Davis, confident he could win the prize, flew to Long Island where the plane was christened "American Legion."

From New York he returned to Hampton Roads for the final tests.

Today's crash is the third accident which has befallen transatlantic planes.

Last year Capt. Rene Fonck's plane caught fire as it took off on the Paris hop.

Only a week ago, Commander Byrd and Floyd Bennett were injured when their plane turned over at Hasbrook Heights, N. J.

In Good Spirits

Officers at Langley Field said that Davis and Wooster were in jubilant spirits when they took off this morning. Davis maneuvered to the far side of the field in order to have a long run before going into the air. The plane carried a full load, approximately the same weight that it would have carried on the Atlantic flight.

There was no wind. The plane taxied across the field and rose about 20 to 50 feet over the water, after being out over the water a short distance, the plane turned to come back. Witnesses sensed that something had gone wrong and they kept their eyes glued to the plane.

Davis had almost made solid ground when the plane settled, lost altitude and dipped into the water. Extra fuel tanks which were carried overhead in the plane came loose and crashed down upon Davis and Wooster, crushing them to death.

A preliminary investigation revealed that they were killed by the falling tanks of gasoline and were not drowned.

TRUMBULL APARTMENTS UNDERGOING REPAIRS

Named Changed to Elite; Gas Heating Plant To Be Installed

Announcement that the name of the Trumbull Apartments, S. Main-st. has been changed to the Elite Apartments, and that the building will undergo a number of improvements, was made here today by John H. Williamson, Findlay real estate dealer, who recently acquired the property through a court sale.

The improvements will include painting of the building, inside and outside, new paper for many of the rooms and considerable remodeling work. A new heating system equipped with a gas furnace is to be installed next fall, Mr. Williamson says.

His brother, Paul Williamson, is to move here from Findlay and take charge of the management.

BEHIND THE SCREEN

Ethlyene Clair

ETHLYNE CLAIR, a famous southern beauty, was selected by a film company as the "perfect movie type." She is claimed to possess the combination of the beauty of Corrine Griffith, Norma Talmadge and Doris Kenyon, and has every photographic quality in abundance.

Miss Clair has been in moving pictures about 18 months. She was born in Talladega, Ala., and was reared in Atlanta, Ga. After attending Breman college in Georgia, she entered the National Academy of Fine Arts in Washington, D. C., where she studied drawing and painting. After more than one year in this school, she came to New York and started in pictures, her first venture being a minor role in "Sandra" with the late Barbara La Marr. Since then she appeared in roles of various importance in a number of National, Paramount, and Robert Kane pictures.

Miss Clair is 18 years old and has brown hair and eyes. Her next role will be in a series of two-reel comedies as Mrs. Newlywed.

As soon as Clara Bow completes her rest, which she has been compelled to take, owing to a nervous breakdown, she will play in another Elinor Glyn production called, "The Red Haired Girl."

---

Wallace Berry and Raymond Hatton will appear clowning together again when work begins on "Fireman, Save My Child!"

Property Owners Forfeit Right Unless Complaint Is Filed with Council

...owners who claim they are ...d in connection with street ... forfeit their right to a re... ...ess they first file formal ...with City Council, accord... ...argument made by City ...orge T. Geran in Common ...s yesterday.

...or submitted his argument ...g before Judge Scofield in ...with three suits asking for ...against collection of paving.

The record shows that ... owners seeking injunctions failed to file protests with Council, their first step being to enter suit in the Common Pleas court. According to Geran's contention, this procedure deprives them of the right to contest in court.

Two of the suits, one filed by John G. Aronhalt and the other by Elizabeth Ruckmund and others, were brought to protest against Oak-st paving assessments, and the third, filed by Frank M. Kensoner, is in connection with the W. Church-st paving.

John H. Clark appeared as attorney in the Aronhalt and Ruckmund cases and Fred W. Warner represented Kensoner.

The point has never been decided in any court, attorneys believe. It is reported, however, that a case involving the question is now pending before the Ohio Supreme Court and if that proves to be true it is probable that Judge Scofield will withhold his decision, until the supreme court ruling is made.

STEAM SHOVEL PLANT FORMALLY TRANSFERRED

Deed to W. A. Harriman & Co., New York City, Filed for Record

Formal transfer of the plant of the Marion Steam Shovel Co., to the new corporation recently organized under the same name by W. A. Harriman & Co., Inc., of New York City, took place today when the deed was filed for record at the County Recorder's office.

The actual price of the property is not stated in the deed, which lists merely the nominal consideration of $1. The deed covers all of the local property, including about 70 acres of land and the factory buildings. The land is described in 19 separate tracts.

The new Marion Steam Shovel Co., headed by J. L. Ackerson of New York City, recently elected president, is expected to take over the management about May 1.

Recording of the deed is to be followed shortly by filing of a mortgage which is security for the $3,000,000 bond issue being marketed in connection with the company's refinancing program.

Date of incorporation of the old Marion Steam Shovel Co., officers of which signed the deed, is given as Aug. 8, 1886. It is signed by Frank A. Huber and Harry T. Bell, president and secretary, respectively of the old company.

ROTARY CLUB NAMES DIRECTORS FOR YEAR

Organization Acts To Have City Retain Lot for Playground Use

Jesse H. Mason, Dr. J. E. Crawmer, Morris Hahn, Clarence Brown, LeRoy D. Zachman, Elmer J. Schoenlaub and Charles H. Isaly, were elected as board of directors to serve during the coming year, at the monthly business meeting of the Rotary Club held in the ballroom at Hotel Harding Monday noon. Talks by Clarence Brown and Dr. Crawmer who represented the local club at the district convention held in Toledo last Wednesday and Thursday and reports of the chairman of the various committees made up the luncheon program.

Further action of the club in an effort to have the city retain the lot at the intersection of Mark and Patterson-sts to be converted into a playground, was taken when Elmer J. Schoenlaub, chairman of the boy's work committee was instructed to take the matter up with council. R. T. Lewis told the club one citizen had offered to furnish 25 trees to be planted in the lot and that the Marion Real Estate Board had created a fund to help build the playground.

RECEIVE THREE BIDS FOR POWER STREET ROLLER

Two Marion Concerns and One Crestline Company Seek Contract

Three bids for a road roller and scarifier to be purchased by the City Service Department were opened by Service Director Beneicke at noon yesterday. The Birch Plow Works Co. of Crestline who submitted a bid of $2,400 for seven-ton roller with hand scarifier and McCormick-Deering engine was the only out-of-town bidder. With Fordson power the Crestline roller was priced at $2,740 and with a power scarifier the price would be $600 additional.

The Marion Implement Co. submitted a bid of $2,850 for a seven-ton roller with air pressure scarifier and plane. With hand scarifier the price would be $150 less. The Huber Manufacturing Co. submitted a bid of $2,450 for a five-ton roller and $2,750 for a seven-ton roller, air pressure scarifier to be $300 additional and the blade $150 additional. A demonstration of the Huber roller to be given within the next few days is being planned. It is probable the demonstration will be given on Chelsea-av. As a special inducement the Huber company is offering a six per cent discount for cash.

Death Toll 200 as Southern Flood Waters Continue Spread

PESTILENCE IS PLAYING LARGE PART IN HORROR

House Filled with Refugees Burns to Water's Edge; Cows Only Food

..., Tenn., April 26—The death ... the southern floods soared to ... around 200 as the Missis... continued to overrun the ... the lower Mississippi valley, ... additional towns and claim... lives.

Six persons were reported to ... dead near Head, Miss., when ... they took refuge in ... the water's edge.

... deaths were reported today ... several doctors and nurses narrowly ... from Leland, Miss., from disease.

Helena, Ark., held its breath today as the levees showed signs of weakening. Helena to date is dry and protecting several thousand refugees but is surrounded by water.

Cold, half-starved and half-naked refugees, marooned on house tops and in branches of trees in the flood area are being rescued by boats today and taken to Leland, Miss. Some are only semi-conscious from their exposure.

No Crops This Year

Planters in the delta of the Mississippi and in the St. Francis Basin, Arkansas have abandoned hope of raising crops this year.

Arkansas City was evacuated today after a night of horror. Cut off from the outer world, without light or water for 24 hours, the city was in the grasp of swirling pools of water, 11 feet deep today. Its citizens stayed until the last moment and then left on boats and rafts.

Telephone communication was established with Greenville, Miss., early today and scores of boats were available. One rescue boat was reported turned at several docks and nurses narrowly escaped death by jumping into the water and swimming to the banks.

In Leland, Miss., the milking cows of the refugees were being slaughtered in order to make the food supply last. The town is under eight to 20 feet of water and foodstuffs are almost exhausted.

New Areas Flooded

Many new areas were flooded today from tributaries of the Mississippi rising beyond their banks throughout the Lower Mississippi Valley, Louisiana was getting its first real touch of flood disaster when breaks near Shreveport in the Red River levees were reported.

Conditions in the Greenville area were improving and foodstuffs reached that city.

A crisis was expected today in a threatened split between the Red Cross and the Mississippi National Guard over the forceful evacuation of several south towns.

Under orders to move persons from the flooded towns by force if necessary, national guard troops were enroute to those towns. These orders were sharply criticized by Red Cross Officials in the field. The question will probably be decided by Secretary of Commerce Hoover who will make a report in Washington today following his special tour of the area aboard the U. S. Chilcca.

FLOOD SITUATION SURVEYED FROM PLANE

Little Rock, Ark., April 26—The flood situation along the Mississippi River south of Helena and along the Arkansas south of Pine Bluff appears to be growing worse today, according to a report made to state military headquarters by Capt. H. H. Noyes, regular army officer assigned to the national guard reserves, who late yesterday completed a survey of the flooded area from an airplane.

The plane left the Little Rock airport with a supply of small pox and typhoid serum for flood refugees at Briner, Brasfield, Helena, Arkansas City, Dermott, Monticello, Dumas and Gould.

The serum was dropped from a low altitude and was picked up at all places Capt. Noyes reported.

McGehee, too was flooded, Captain Noyes reported. Boats were in use on the main business streets. The railroad between McGehee and Dermott appeared to be open.

Capt. Noyes described the territory in southeastern Arkansas as a "big inland sea over which we flew for hundreds of miles with nothing to hold us out of the water but our propellor, and praying to God that it wouldn't fail us."

What freedom in those words! Only those can realize who know the distress of clogged nose, catarrhal deafness, offensive breath, raising of mucus, and lowered vitality due to catarrh. Yet thousands still endure catarrh needlessly, because they are treating symptoms instead of the cause.

Catarrh is an inflamed condition of the mucous membrane—the delicate lining of the air passages of nose, throat and head. When this is corrected, catarrh disappears.

Salves and ointments give only temporary relief. But Hall's Catarrh Medicine because it goes directly to the cause has been successful for over 40 years. Ask your druggist. Price 85c. F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

Pain in Your Shoulder?

It's Probably Neuritis; Use Tysmol for Relief

Knife-like jabs of pain in the vicinity of the shoulder blade are generally due to neuritis, brought on by exposure to draughts or sudden changes of weather. In some cases there is stiffness of soreness in the muscles, making it difficult to raise the arm.

The safest and easiest way to relieve such an attack is to apply a small quantity of Tysmol over the affected area. This soothing, healing preparation is quickly absorbed through the pores and carried to the throbbing, aching peripheral nerves. The pains usually stop at once, and in a very short time the last trace of soreness should disappear.

Tysmol is absolutely harmless—free from dope. Recommended for all forms of nerve pain, whether caused by neuritis, neuralgia, sciatica or rheumatism. You can get a good supply for $1 at any drug store. Always on hand at

"She said her husband had reprimanded her for staying out. She admitted that she had taken one trip to Canada that had lasted about a week. On this trip to Canada she said she went with a Mr. and Mrs. Kehoe but could not remember the hotels where they stopped. She said there were no other men along.

Finally McLaughlin said Mrs. Snyder told him she "wanted to tell the truth"—"that she was getting in deeper and deeper."

"I had in my hand a piece of paper on which was written H. J. Gray," McLaughlin said.

"I handed this paper to her. She said, 'that is the party—has he confessed?'"

Then according to McLaughlin, she told of meeting Gray in Henri's Restaurant and said that they had been intimate.

Will your skin bear close scrutiny?

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils and other skin eruptions as being an indication of an abnormal condition of the system. This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful annoyances by taking a course of S. S. S.

You owe it to yourself to try S.S.S. It helps Nature build up red corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the blood is nourished.

"I suffered from impure blood—was weak, and I had lost so much weight, I didn't look natural. I had pimples and was also bothered with a breaking-out that itched terribly. I also had boils, one after another. I tried different kinds of remedies, but nothing did me any good until a friend advised me to take S.S.S., which I did. This was some time ago. Now I feel well, and I am getting along fine. S.S.S. stopped the itching and it cured me of boils. I advise all weak and run-down people to give S.S.S. a trial. It clears up the skin and makes you strong and fills you with energy." Mrs. J. W. Barker, 1357 Walnut Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

S.S.S. is made from the fresh roots of medicinal herbs and plants and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory. It is tonic-ial and reliable.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger one is more economical.—Adv.

An American on Americanism.

A remarkably forceful exposition of Americanism by a real American. That, in a sentence, describes the speech delivered by President Coolidge at the Biltmore in New York City, Monday night, upon the occasion of the celebration of the twentieth anniversary of the United Press associations.

It is not our purpose to give here either the words of the president or even follow the exact order of the truths he uttered. Our desire is rather to bring out the pith of some of his salient utterances which had special appeal to us.

By way of introduction, Mr. Coolidge spoke of the power wielded by the press, bringing out the thought that the greater that power, necessarily the greater should be the care that it be exercised in the right direction. He pointed out that there could be no freedom of the press save in and under a government of free people, and that thus it was that the press was under obligation not only to itself and the public to handle news accurately and without prejudice, but also owed a duty to itself and the public to support the form of government and the institutions of government which made a free press possible and preserved the liberties of the people. Such, he held, was not only the patriotic course, but the course of good business judgment as well, reciting that there are today so many sources of information and so many channels in which news is presented to the public, that papers which distorted the news or entirely departed from the truth were speedily recognized by the public and soon lost their influence for either good or bad.

The president holds, and rightly too, that there is utterly no excuse for any misunderstanding on the part of the American press of the policies of the government and thus no excuse for a misrepresentation of them, and that any other than an honest presentation of those policies which apply to other governments is unfair alike to our own government and any government with which our government may be engaged in a controversy.

The president sees three great influences for peace—the press, commerce and good understanding. It was here that he paid his respects to that element of our citizenship which is ready to criticize any position which our government may take, any policy which it may elect to follow. Without naming them, he made it so plain that one running might read between his lines that he meant the internationalists, the pacificists and all others unfriendly to the government's policies in connection with Mexico, Nicaragua and China. His words were not so striking. They might even be said to have been mild, but there was nothing of mildness in the blows he struck by and through them at those whose expressed sympathies are ever to comfort any government with which our government may be engaged in controversy and never in support of the government of the United States.

Taking up the Mexican situation, the president made the justness of our position convincingly clear and plain, and probably he could not in any other way have administered so striking a rebuke to those here at home who have done their utmost to weaken our policies abroad. He dwelt upon our desire to remain upon friendly terms with Mexico as well as all the world, and while voicing his inability to see how the questions at issue could be submitted to arbitration, as has been proposed, he expressed the hope that all matters in controversy will be adjusted amicably by negotiation, as he had the assurance of the Mexican ambassador to Washington that there would be no occasion for this country to recede from its position, which Mr. Coolidge made plain he proposed to maintain, that the property in Mexico of American citizens can not be confiscated by a retroactive law.

The president was equally frank in his discussion of the Nicaraguan situation, and then went into the matter of the presence of our armed forces in China, which he made plain was not for any purpose of aggression, but purely for the protection of the lives of our citizens. Protection of American property rights, he said, could be gone into later, when some government stable in form should be organized.

Mr. Coolidge recited that all civilized governments have recognized the fact that individuals have certain inalienable rights which they are bound to observe and that these rights follow the individual into any land into which he may be welcomed. He not only has the protection of the laws of that land, but also the protection which follows him from the land from which he comes.

To our national history Mr. Coolidge pointed as the best answer to the cry of imperialism which has been raised against us by enemies of the government's policies here at home and abroad. He held that our entire history refuted it; that we are not now and never had been an aggressive nation; that our entire course has been to the other extreme, and he expressed the view that he did not credit those uttering the imperialism cry with believing it. We are a peace-loving nation, he said, and always have been, and it is our wish and desire to continue as such. In our early days we looked to the outside world for assistance in a monetary way and had received it, and now, since we have become possessed of large resources and are in position where we can be of aid to weaker nations, he said, we are glad to render such aid. We may be misunderstood, he said; our purpose may be misconstrued, but such is our purpose though we realize that possibly we may suffer by it. Such a possibility must be risked in our mission, which is one of service and sacrifice.

There is demand for such pronouncements as that made by the president Monday night. It is time that a clear, concise summing-up of our position is given the world. We have remained silent under misrepresentation too long. It is time that the utterances of an unfriendly element here at home are refuted. It is good that this element should know what unquestionably is the true position of the great mass of the people of our country—the millions here at home who beyond question gave silent approval to the words of the president as they came through the air Monday evening. And it is especially good that the civilized world should know, as those in foreign lands who heard the president's address were told, that America wants and plans to be friendly to all the world; that her aim and desire is one of peace and good will, without thought of aggression.

We are unable to see any occasion for the expressed regret that the recent frosts have ruined Ohio's fruit crop. Whether we have a bumper crop or none at all does not appear to be reflected in the prices quoted the consumer.

Kerensky has been slapped again, this time as he entered a banquet hall up in Chicago. We haven't any particular esteem for Kerensky, but it strikes us that the game is being overplayed. At the best, it's a mighty cheap-skate way to secure newspaper notoriety.

Just back from a trip around the world, Samuel Untermyer, chief counsel of the New York transit commission, says he finds that the world hates and envies the United States. Did anybody ever hear of a country which wasn't prosperous being hated and envied?

A few more mighty floods like that which is sweeping the Mississippi valley and people will begin to realize that too many marshes and too much swamp lands can not be "reclaimed" without somebody having to pay the penalty. Flood waters must have outlets or danger to lives and valuable property is bound to result.

Vagrant Verse.

SHAKESPEARE.

Thou mortal and immortal in one breath,
Thou singer of the silences of time,
Thou faithful lover of the stones and stars,
And every blade of grass, and every sun
That shines in the immeasurable sky;
Thou, drinking dew as other men drink wine,
Feeding thy soul on lavender and haw,
And skylark's singing, and the greenwood shade;
Thou who hast gathered life and love and death
And strung them lightly on a silver string
With kisses, bowls of ale, and daffodils:
Thou, Puck and Lear and Denmark in one hour;
Thou who has built a world within a world,
Whence camest thou, and from what infinite vast
Did'st thou adventure to this little earth
Across the whirling, miracle of years,
An acorn tobled up within thy hand?
Living and dying then, a thousand times
In thy great heart, and on the golden page,
Whence art thou gone, and which bright star, big star
Does thou inhabit, of the many stars
That shine upon this memorable night?
"When in disgrace with fortune and men's eyes,"
We don the garment of thy gallantry
And play the play with vigor to the end.
And with an humble pen we trace today
The letters of the word: "We must endure
Our going hence, even as our coming hither:
Ripeness is all." And man can say no more.
—Barbara Young.

CHINA: "IT'S MY HOUSE! I WANT YOU TO GO OUT AND STAY OUT!"

Rock Cradle and Rule World.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Somebody sent me this funny clipping from a paper:

"Anybody can be a mother. All you gotta be is a cook, a nurse, a judge, a hairdresser, a minister, a chiropodist, a queen, a laundress, a story-teller, a decorator, a doctor, a sleepwalker, an actress, a clairvoyant, God and an encyclopedia. That's all."

Isn't it a fact?

"God couldn't be everywhere," said some wise person of old, "so He made mothers."

When I think about the pioneer women and all they endured, my heart aches for them. We should erect a monument in every community, a monument dedicated to motherhood.

They suffered all the dangers and privations, the sacrifices of creature comfort, the deadly monotony of pioneer life. As Joseph Choate said: "The Pilgrim mothers endured everything the Pilgrim fathers endured and the Pilgrim fathers besides!"

But this gives no idea of what they did suffer. Without the ministrations of the nurse, the comforts of the hospital and the aid of skilled servants, they suffered the agonies of maternity. Almost immediately they returned to the arduous duties of the household. Baking, weaving, sewing, mending—there was no end to their activities.

Thank God, these days are over. But, even so, motherhood is no summer picnic in this day and generation.

No matter whether the mother lives in a cottage or a palace there are limitless demands upon her vitality, patience and endurance. There is no letup, no vacation, no day off, no respite from her duties.

When the baby is little, there are the regular feedings, the bathing and changing, the watchful care over the needs and wishes of the infant. As the child grows older and runs about, there are new anxieties for its safety and welfare.

When the youngster begins to talk, there are questions to answer and pretty soon, there are calls upon her knowledge giving need of encyclopedic learning. A thousand times the same answer must be repeated by the tired but patient angel of God.

Why do I remind you of these things? Because I want to make an appeal to everybody to help mother. The rest of us must run the errands, fill the wood-box, bring up the potatoes, tell stories to the baby, and take off mother's shoulders some of her burdens. We must do this to preserve her health, as well as to make her happy because somebody cares.

The mother job is the most important job in the world. It is, too, the best job and the most satisfying one. But, boys and girls, and fathers, too, let's help!

Editorial Comment.

UNCHANGED CHINA.

The immutability of things Chinese is proverbial. Conquests, invasions, catastrophies, long periods of political and social turmoil, civil wars in dreary succession have marked the history of the ancient empire, but always the basic institutions of the people have survived intact, and perhaps none of them has emerged less affected by the flux of events than the institution of the family.

Here, in the survival of the sanctity of home and family, may be said to lie the secret of the unchangeableness of China. Ancestor worship, reverence for old age, the sacredness of blood and marriage ties—in China these matters are tenets of religion, instinctively observed. And on them, as on a foundation stone, China has reared up a great civilization.

The question is now being raised whether this rock can withstand the storm which at present sweeps over China. With all the other things western, good and bad, new conceptions of the position of woman have penetrated into the country, and a woman's emancipation movement is being pushed by Nationalist agents, with Mrs. Sun Yat Sen in the forefront. Its success must be considerable, judging by the violence with which the husbands of Hankow and other cities in the Yangtze valley have protested. The men object because, as a first step in this new freedom, many of the women take to neglecting firesides and children for suffrage meetings.

Woman's place, according to the husbands, is in the home or at her spouse's side in the workshop and in the field. Mrs. Sun was told that, unless the women return to their rightful place in society, the husbands will quit work themselves, which would be a dangerous thing in China, as the Chinese, while naturally industrious, are capable of a lot of mischief when idle.

It goes without saying that China will never be quite the same if Mrs. Sun has her way. But she is still very far from having it. Her enthusiasm seems to be the familiar one of a reformer forcing an idea for the sake of its novelty and regardless of its adaptability. She has yet to wear down the tremendous inertia of centuries of custom and tradition. —Detroit Free Press.

EFFECT OF COLORS.

That different colors may have important effects on the mental state of people has been believed for many years. Some psychologists have gone so far as to prepare charts of the mental effects of different colors, red being stimulating and exciting, blue depressing, and so on. In a long series of tests made on children several months ago it was found that most of the children preferred red and orange colors to blue and violet ones. Red for most people is a cheerful, inspired color.—Denver Post.

Today's Worst Story.

BY WILL ROGERS

There's a lot of false statements made, I reckon, about everything that's sold. You are not supposed to take them all seriously, anyhow. 'Course you can't learn to out-talk a Frenchman in his own language in ten easy lessons, and nobody expects you to believe it, but if somebody tells you that, maybe you'll get the idea that it'd be a good thing to learn how to say hello in French. That's all right, and I ain't criticizing nobody for boosting his stuff.

Some bookseller sold one of my books to a lonesome-looking guy, on the ground that the book certainly had a story in it for every kind of occasion. The guy brought the book back the next week, and asked for his dough.

"Good book, ain't it?" says the bookseller.

"Maybe. But I bought it because you said it had a story for every emergency. But the only emergency worth mentioning happened when I came home at 3 o'clock and couldn't find the light or the door or anything, and this here nook ain't got a single story that I could tell my wife on that occasion. Gimme my dough!"—Copyright, 1927.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

After all, isn't the betterment of human relations the preeminent purpose in the world's business? Progress toward this end is made by conferences of railroad officials and employes arranged by the Railroad Y. M. C. A. A conference at Omaha had as its theme: "Transportation Leadership and Right Human Relations."

Railroad Y. M. C. A. workers feel that the railway field offers the best opportunity for establishing better relations for these reasons:

1. The high intelligence required in railway service enables employers and men to appreciate the viewpoint of each other.

2. Railroad officials are largely recruited from men of long experience and service in the railroad business. Hence they can appreciate the problems of the men.

3. Railroad officials and the brotherhoods have been able to adjust differences by "shirt-sleeved diplomacy" around a conference table.

If you are an ergophobiac, look out. An ergophobiac is one who hates work. If you hate work you are hopeless. You are incurable. But you have lots of company. The country has millions of 'em—especially in the spring.

Someone has said that nothing a man does can please him if he knows he is not doing his duty. The fact is you can't smother your conscience with a whole featherbed of generosity. Kindness in one place never can offset hardness in another. Some people get a reputation for affability and courtesy simply because they are nice to people who are nice to them. They deserve no credit.

You may be hard by instinct. If you can't beat an instinct, you haven't yet climbed out of barbarism.

If you say you do not know your own mind about a matter, it is because you do not want to know it. You are trying to live according to instinct instead of according to intelligence, and you don't want to admit it.

If we were only honest, our own opinion of ourselves would be the most accurate opinion in the world. But we constantly seek to fool ourselves.

Talks by Those in Public Eye.

WILLIAM M. JARDINE.

William M. Jardine was born in Oneida county, Idaho, January 16, 1879. He began his career as a cowpuncher on the ranches of Idaho and Montana, but forsook the range at the age of twenty to attend Utah Agricultural college. Then he became an instructor, later a professor of agriculture and agronomy, and in 1918 was made president of Kansas State Agricultural college. In 1925 he was appointed secretary of agriculture in the cabinet of President Collidge. He is a member of various farm and forest bureaus and commissions, and is the author of numerous papers on farming and crop production.

Secretary Jardine holds that the automobile has been largely responsible for the plight of the farmer in that it has killed the demand for 24,000,000,000 pounds of grain. He says:

"Although the population of the country has increased steadily, the demand for some commodities has decreased sharply. The substitution of automobiles and tractors for horses has resulted in the loss of a market for 13,000,000,000 pounds of grain, and this loss is being added to each year. Other conditions have eliminated another 11,000,000,000 pounds from use.

"With an over-abundance of farms and a falling market, the country could not escape going through some form of readjustment. This has expressed itself in a natural deflation, of which the migration of farmers back to the cities is the most visible expression. Now, however, the parade has gone about far enough.

"The farmers have been plunged into a situation through this readjustment where they can not meet their expenses unless they market their crops immediately. As a result, they have to sell at a loss. This, in turn, is driving more farmers to the city than the needs of the country will be able to stand very soon."

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. M'INTYRE.

New York, April 26—The business of a waitress has undergone vast change since the coming of those chain-type restaurants featuring home cooking in a backgrou[nd] of magnificent period decorations. These draw heavy patronage since prohibition.

They offer a fillip for those who usually entertain at home prefer quiet atmosphere, good food to shrieking cabarets. Fifth avenue and other smart avenues are dotted with the new style ornate eating place. The[y] criticize.

They suggest, through the interior decorator's art, Florence, Venice, Madrid, Paris or where not. The elegance is studied but prices not exorbitant. The hostess-waitress you are as carefully selected as the ladies of the ensemble.

There are none of those flip, buxom type of waitresses full of smart back chat that New York knows so well. In their stead come ladies clicking high heels, face bobbed and rustling in black or blue uniforms.

Their voices are modulated to a dining room pianissimo. One finds a lady who dignifies their name with a Miss and is known to the over-seeing hostesses as Miss Smith or Miss Brown. Any number are college girls, filling in an interim for the big chance.

They do not offer conversation and a question will bring a polite and direct answer, nothing more. There are training departments where the novice is schooled in the art of making her job a quiet dignity. It is quite effective.

The average salary is about $15 a week, but that is a small part of what they make. Some of the extremely efficient make large sums in tips. Scores of stenographers have left downtown offices to balance the silver tray. It is no longer regarded as menial.

One of the most consistent first-nighters in New York is A. Reuben, the handsome delicatessen king. In immaculate evening dress he sits far down front, usually alone. After the show he greets the cream of society and the stars who munch ninety-cent sandwiches in one or the other of his two sandwich salons.

Mons. Reuben was the first to discover New York's propensity to purchase perfume at midnight. He established a perfume department at the entrance of each of his delicatessen palaces and the perfume sales almost equal that of his sandwiches.

Another curious merchandise mixture noted on upper Lexington avenue where a shop is divided into two sections—one side devoted to the sale of canary birds and the other to silk stockings.

Unless I am hopelessly dumb—ago[ny] cries of "No! No!"—there is some goshawful kidding going on in the intimate little Broadway theaters. At one the other afternoon a man walked on carrying a sun flower. He placed it in a child's cradle and rocked it, crooning some lullabye. Then two shots were fired off the stage and the curtain slowly descended. The house rocked with applause. Symbolic stuff—the program said. But it's rough stuff to the boy friend.

An energetic trombonist has his ad in a theatrical weekly as follows: "At liberty—hot and sweet. Plenty pep. Read and fake. Have outfit. Tuxedo. Hot sock cymbals. Also violin. Double stop and goofus."

$25,500 GOAL IN BOY SCOUT, Y. M. C. A. DRIVE

Amount Sought This Year $5,250 Larger Than Quota in 1926

Twenty-five thousand five hundred dollars is the goal set for the Y. M. C. A.-Boy Scout finance campaign to get under way next week. Campaign managers hope to collect at least $ 24,838 in actual cash payments.

The amount sought this year is $5,250 more than that asked during the last campaign. The amount obtained in the drive last year was sufficient to carry on the community service needed by the boys, General Secretary Marion Verning announced a few days ago.

The money brought in by the campaign will be used to cover Y. M. C. A. service to the boys, girls, and women of Marion, the work with the men being entirely self-supporting and in fact showing a creditable balance for the last year.

Disposition of Funds

Disposition of funds secured in the campaign next week will be made as follows:

Interest on the capital debt of the "Y," $447; Boy Scout Council, $3,000; community service by the Y. M. C. A. for which it receives no direct remuneration, $3,000; service to girls, $2,000; to women, $1702 and service to boys, $16,002.

These amounts total $27,184 but are covered in part by a net balance of $1,070 from fees paid by men of the Y. M. C. A. for various services, by net revenue of $559 from the restaurant, by net revenue of $624 from sales of merchandise used by members, and net revenue of $559 from the restaurant. When these fees and revenues are subtracted from the above sum a total of $24,638 remains for the operating expense of the "Y" and Boy Scout service, to be covered by popular contributions.

Nearly Complete

At noon today the organization that is being formed to carry on the finance campaign next week was practically complete. Twenty-three of the 25 teams of six men each were complete and others lacked only one or two men. A letter has been mailed to each captain giving the names of the 150 men already enlisted and authorizing each to add one more man to his team if he wishes.

The leaders expect that the working body will number at least 175 by the time the first meeting of the whole organization is held at a complimentary dinner in the "Y" gymnasium Friday night of this week.

Plan Booklet

A well-prepared 12-page booklet in magazine form is being printed and will be mailed into approximately 3,500 Marion homes Friday. This booklet is copiously illustrated with cuts from photographs of the various activities and groups of "Y" boys and Boy Scouts, and gives in detail the analysis of the operating budget, showing how the various deficits are incurred, as well as detailed figures indicating something of the volume and nature of the service being rendered to the community.

Perhaps the most striking feature of this booklet is a page indicating the cost of completely modern "Y" service and equipment as illustrated by the investment in such service being made by other Ohio cities and cities of adjoining states. This statistical table indicates that a modern "Y" building for Marion will cost about $450,000. The normal operating budget for such service in cities the size of Marion is about $35,700, as compared with that of $30,400 for the local "Y" last year.

The figures indicate that when giving the various communities credit for interest in their permanent investment in "Y" equipment and endowment along with their annual contributions to the work of their Young Men's Christian Associations, the average for cities the size of Marion, computed on a per capita of population basis, is $28,400, as compared with our contribution of $21,700, last year and the $24,638 asked this year, members of the campaign point out.

Court Will Decide Whether Wife Has Right To Explore Husband's Pockets

THE question of whether a woman has the right to extract money from her husband's pockets without his consent, which has formed the basis of jokes for humorists and comedians practically ever since pockets were placed in trousers, promises to be one of the principal points argued in a divorce suit filed in the Marion County Court of Common Pleas today.

The suit was filed by James L. Detrow, who charges that his wife, Della A. Detrow, "violated the tenets of her religious persuasions by taking from his pocket in a sneaking manner the sum of $47."

In connection with his references to her "religious persuasions," Detrow says that his wife was a Sunday School teacher. He relates that he admonished her to live up to the principles of her church and that although she denied she didn't seem to affect her feelings and left him two days later, taking her three children and going to the home of a sister in Circleville.

Three times the couple separated and they were twice reunited, according to Detrow's petition, which relates that his wife failed to return after the last disruption.

They were married in London, Madison County, on March 1, 1915 and four children were born, three of whom are living at this time. They are Evelyn, 11; James, 8, and Clyde Robert, 6.

Their married life previously was without serious difficulties until about three years ago when Detrow, according to his petition, discovered the money missing from his pocket.

From that time on the matrimonial bark traveled stormy seas, according to the husband's petition. Mrs. Detrow returned 10 days after the first separation and they lived happily for several months until one day when the wife became angry and threatened to kill her husband with a carving knife as he changed. Despite this rather distressing incident Detrow agreed to a reconciliation for the sake of the children, he states.

Detrow petitions for a divorce, custody of the children and for an order barring his wife from their ... He states that he has an equity in a small residence property at 510 N. State-st.

DIFFICULTY IS EXPECTED IN SECURING JURY

Miss Mabel Montague To Be Called as Witness for State

Caledonia, April 26—The trial of Irvin Leitzy, Galion, on a charge of manslaughter, which opened in the common pleas court this morning pushed the Longenfelter divorce case from the spotlight of local interest.

Selection of a jury was expected to occupy the greater part of the today's session of the Leitzy case. The Longenfelter trial which was continued last night when it was yet uncompleted after two full days in court. Providing the Leitzy case is completed within the estimated time, the divorce case will be resumed next Friday morning.

Two Indicted

Leitzy was indicted with Carl Helfrich, another Galion man by the grand jury in connection with the death of George Gunther, Crestline, early in February after he had been run down by a hit skip motorist in the street near his home.

Information furnished officials by Miss Mabel Montague, now serving sentence in the Delaware Girls' Industrial Home led to the arrest of the pair. Miss Montague will probably be summoned as a witness for the state during the trial. According to officials, her story implicates both Leitzy and Helfrich. With these two, she was riding in the car that is said to have preceded a drinking party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Trawler, Galion.

Both Under Bond

Helfrich and Leitzy are both enjoying their freedom under bond. The former will face the charge of manslaughter in a separate trial.

Prosecutor Kreiter is representing the state in the case. W. J. Geer of Galion and A. F. Leuthold, Bucyrus, are representing the defense.

Verbal clashes between counsel featured the final day of the first session in the Lingenfelter case yesterday. Direct and cross examination of a number of witnesses chiefly concerned the finances of the plaintiff, Dr. C. A. Lingenfelter and the defendant, his wife, Marion Lingenfelter. Twenty-five witnesses have been subpoenaed to appear to date and with the resumption of the case probably later in the week, this number will be increased.

JIMMY JONES, salesman, caught in a Minnesota blizzard, bought a fur coat that went on his expense account as "One fur coat $100." His firm wouldn't pay the bill. The next time he had to buy a fur coat it went on his expense account as hotel bills, railroad fare, etc. His firm paid it.

Many Ohio wool growers are paying for marketing expenses that aren't set down for what they are. Good wool must carry the load for poor wool and both must carry the buyer's profit.

The Ohio Wool Growers Co-operative Association was organized to remedy this. It is nine years old and has handled, through the Wool Pool, almost thirty million pounds of wool. Growers who use it have received more than a million and a half dollars above local market returns. To get every last cent your wool is worth, without any hidden charges, call The Farm Bureau Office for directions about the Wool Pool.

Cold-Water Tinting

(Copyright 1927)

There are lots of "prepared tints" for home tinting of your dainty lingerie, but did you ever try real dye-tinting with a real dye? You get glorious effects when you begin with the true tones that only real dyes can impart to fabrics!

An envelope of the actual dye powder is only fifteen cents at any drug-store. Sift a bit in cold water—dip the garment—and it's done. Only you'll have a smooth, even tone just exactly like materials have when bought; none of that streaky look; never weak or "washy" no matter how much you dilute or lighten the color. Furthermore, you can "set" the tint if you want, by merely having the water boil.

Every drugstore has Diamond dyes, color cards and suggestions for exquisite tinting or regular, permanent dyeing of anything. Or, write for Color Craft—a marvelous book of ideas in full colors; free for DIAMOND DYES, Dept. N33, Burlington, Vermont.

Nowadays children aren't given the unsuitable heavy meals so common years ago. For child health specialists are teaching that the kind of food given is more important for healthful growth than quantity—or even variety.

They are urging the importance of the growth foods . . . those that contain protein in helpful amounts. All the nourishment of the natural whole grain—vitamins and indispensable minerals—are furnished by Quick Mother's Oats with milk. Let your growing children have it often.

What Has Gone Before

In the home of PROF and ELLIE ELWELL in Camden, Ind., one night in October, is heard a woman who had just got on a train. That night Jim is born to her and she dies without revealing her name. The story then moves forward years. The twins, now grown beautiful womanhood, have been named and named MARGARET ELIZABETH. They are called PEGGY AND BETTY.

JIM ELWELL, the son, enlists in the World War. He then discovers that one of the twins loves him.

He is shell-shocked at the Battle of Sedan and at first is reported dead. Later he is identified in a New York hospital and his mother and father hasten to him to find his memory gone, that he is like a long dead man.

Specialists despair of his recovery believing an operation might be unsuccessful and fatal as well. The day before his parents are to take him home Jim wanders away from his nurse, NELLIE DOWNING.

A search is begun, in which JACK NEVIN, newspaperman, and MIKE HENNEGAN join. Nevin learns that Jim has had his skull fractured in a traffic accident and has no chance to live. He tells this to Nellie Downing, who starts to faint.

Now Begin the Story

CHAPTER XXXIV

"COME, now, Nellie," said Jack Nevin. "Brace up, old girl."

He caught her in his free arm and supported her.

But Nellie Downing straightened almost instantly. "I'm not going to faint," she said calmly. "I'm not the fainting kind."

"Maybe you're not," said Nevin a little grimly, "but those lips of yours have a mighty funny look."

One of her hands flew to her throat. "What shall we do? What shall we tell Mollie and Prof Elwell—how can we tell them?"

He considered this, noting that she was collecting herself and evidently had passed the point of fainting.

"Well," he hedged, "your man isn't dead—yet, so we—I'll just say he's been found and then on the way down to Twenty-Sixth street I'll break it to his father and Mike Hennegan. Then when we get her to Bellevue we'll have help in case she collapses. That's the best plan I can think of."

"Even so, Jack, it's a cruel plan. Oh, why can't we spare her this terrible news? It's going to break her, Jack, as sure as we're alive!"

"I'm sorry," he said simply. "I'm not much good at such things."

They returned to their taxicab. There Jack Nevin saw the eager question in Mollie Elwell's eyes and lied. That is, he half lied.

"Mistake," he said laconically. "The man they got here is not Jim Elwell. But we've got the correct information now and we'll see your son very shortly."

"Where is he?"

"At Bellevue hospital. At least," he said quickly to forestall another question before it should come too quickly, "we're pretty positive the man at Bellevue is your son. They found a letter in his coat addressed to Mrs. Edwin Elwell."

The letter was accounted for by Mollie. She had placed it in his pocket the day before, she said. "It was a letter from a neighbor at home and I had it with me when I took Jim for a walk."

"How," asked Prof, does he come to be at Bellevue hospital? Has he been hurt?" He looked at Jack Nevin keenly.

Nevin found that breaking the news to Prof without letting Mollie know the truth was not so easy. While, as Nellie Downing had said, he was a good newspaper man, he was not a very good actor.

And neither was the little nurse. They were unable to hide from Mollie's intuitive gaze the story their faces and evasive manners revealed.

Nor was Prof slow in divining that matters were far worse than they seemed.

"You might as well tell us the truth," Jim's father said, after an exchange of looks had passed between him and his wife. "If Jim is dead we've got to know it very soon, anyhow. Is he, Nellie?"

Mollie waited breathlessly for Nellie Downing to answer.

She threw back her head to look her lover's "No, dear, but the nurse stated he was badly hurt." Skull fracture, she believed. Mr. Nevin, the hospital nurses. He was still alive, so far as we know, for he went in alive, but in as dark even as the pos-

Prof Elwell sighed. Hope for the lost had been almost lost today. Mollie had believed he was dead, and now he was alive. There was nothing to do but to go to Bellevue hospital. It was going to be hard, that was surely true.

"Let's do it first from one side and then come another. Who has the list? Would they take Jim Elwell back to a town after all?" cautioned of on his part.

Well, they had stood it before, he reflected. They had stood it when they had thought Jim dead. Probably they could stand it again, although this one was smaller than any.

Anyhow, what else was there to do except to stand it? But it certainly was tough on Mollie.

Jack Nevin was trying to be of some comfort to the woman he had had to hurt.

"Skull fracture," he said to Mollie cheerfully, "isn't necessarily fatal. In this case I imagine they think the case is more serious than usual because of the patient's inability to talk."

Nellie Downing didn't break in to remind him that skull fracture patients very often were unconscious for a time anyway.

"How was he hurt?" Jim's mother asked. "You can tell me, Mr. Nevin. I'm able to listen to the whole story."

"Hit by a truck," he told her, "at Fourteenth and Broadway. You know how bad traffic is down there at times."

Mike Hennegan, who had sat in silence during their conversation, now spoke up. "You know," he said, addressing no one in particular, "I'm beginning to think that I'm a—say, Mr. Nevin, what do you call those birds who think things have just got to happen anyway and kinda come to be resigned to it. Know what I mean?"

"Fatalists?" Nevin supplied.

"That's the word. I'm beginning to think I'm one of these here fatalists. You know, I think that if it had been in the cards for Jim Elwell to get killed he would have got it when that shell struck at Sedan."

It stood to reason, he went on, that a guy who could pull through all that Jim Elwell had pulled through wasn't slated to die in a traffic accident.

"It ain't in the cards," he announced with finality.

Prof Elwell told him he'd like to take the same cheerful view of things. "But we've had so much to contend with, Mike."

"I'm about ready to give up hope altogether," Mollie said and sighed.

No one answered her. Nevin thought for a minute of answering with some bright bit of optimism but told himself he was a fool. There was no further word spoken in the little group until their cab had pulled up in front of Bellevue hospital.

Again at Bellevue, as at the Metropolitan hospital, Nellie Downing's uniform was the badge that eliminated red tape and delay.

"You have an accident victim here named James Elwell?" she asked the nurse on duty at the door.

The nurse would find out. She busied herself at the telephone. "There's a man named Elwell, yes. Skull fracture?"

"Yes, that's it."

"Do all these people want to see him?" The nurse frowned slightly.

Mike Hennegan stepped back. "You can count me out," said he. "I don't want to be in the way."

Nellie Downing said, "These are his parents and this is Mr. Nevin, a newspaperman from the Planet. May we see him?"

The nurse believed so. Someone was coming down who would conduct them to Jim.

They found Jim on a bed, his head swathed in bandages.

"He is still unconscious," said the nurse on duty when they approached the bedside. "It is now—" she looked at her wrist watch—"eight fifty-five. He was brought in shortly after seven o'clock."

Jim's father and mother looked down at the still figure stretched out before them. Nellie Downing turned her head away, as did Jack Nevin.

Finally, "Is there any likelihood of his regaining consciousness before—before very long?" asked Prof Elwell. He had almost said "before he dies," but he had caught a glimpse of Mollie's white lips.

The nurse shrugged her shoulders.

"There's really no way of knowing. Sometimes a patient with a fractured skull will remain unconscious for several days and then recover. Others have regained consciousness very soon and then died. Others have done so and lived."

Nellie Downing nodded her confirmation. "All we can do is wait—and hope."

"Tell me," Mollie said, addressing the strange nurse, "is he—is he very seriously hurt?"

Again the nurse shrugged. She told Mollie Elwell, in sympathetic tones, that skull fractures—severe ones, that was—were gambles.

"Right now we couldn't say one way or another. In a few hours, perhaps—"

Jack Nevin, being a good reporter, felt the urge to get to a telephone. It was nine o'clock and the deadline for the next edition of the Planet was nine-thirty. He found a telephone at the nurses' desk in the main corridor, obtained permission to use it and called his office.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN surely saved me."

Love's Embers

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

A JERRY mistake has regrets nothing to Mary that he'd better such a lie as he made against the new girl. Miss Farrell was going to get a good golden, which gave Mary cause for rejoicing that confession had been avoided.

What a busy, busy afternoon Mary had had! She had studied for an hour, she had practiced for an hour, she had written a letter to Jerry, she had had a delightful chat with Miss Farrell, and she had had a caller. And that caller was Mr. Verriken.

And day before yesterday when we were going along the road, who should we see but young Mr. Verriken walking along by the side of the path.

"He had his hat off carrying it in his hand and when I saw him, I cried out, 'Hi, Mr. Verriken,' and he called back and waved his hat. He didn't pay any attention to me at all that I remember. Now, I know what Mr. Verriken does, and who he is."

Jerry drew a long breath.

"Now, I ask you," he said largely addressing an ell, "what kind of a rigamarole was that for a sensible girl to be handing out. A bee of memory! Ha! Ha! That sure was a hot one. But believe me, she's got some case on Mr. Verriken. She wanted to know if he knew many folks down here, and when I told her you were the only people he went to see, she asked all about you folks, and when I told her, she said, 'Ha! ha! two pretty women, a young married one and a young girl. Now which one, my good Jerry'—that's what she calls me most of the time—my good Jerry does he come to see? It's one or the other, you know.'"

Mary gave a rippling little laugh which I knew covered her embarrassment.

"That's a good one on you, Auntie Madge," she said. "I hope, Jerry, that you told Miss Lincoln the truth, that it is really Auntie Madge whom Mr. Verriken comes to see."

High School Recreational Ball Season To Open Today

LEE-ST TEAM PRESENTS FIRST ENTRY BLANK

Recreational Ball Applications Slow in Appearing; Monday Is Deadline

THE Lee-st Presbyterian Sunday School team last night presented application for admittance to a recreational ball league in Marion this season. It was the first application to be received by F. O. Rudolph, secretary of the commission.

While it is known that at least 10 teams will enter the leagues again this season, only one entry blank has been received so far. The deadline is next Monday night. The rush is expected to start about Friday with the bulk of the completed applications coming in some time Monday.

Only three Sunday Schools were represented last night at the meeting of Juniors to decide upon a new league of either recreational ball or baseball. No action was taken in the matter and it was decided to call another meeting within the next few weeks to take up the subject.

A few weeks ago the Juniors were clamoring for admission to a league of recreational ball but now either they have lost interest or did not know of the meeting last night. Those present last night unanimously favored recreational ball and if a league of Juniors is formed in the future it will, without a doubt, be for recreational ball.

TONY GETS ANOTHER

Canzoneri Adds Name of Harold Smith To Knockout Victims

New York, April 26—Tony Canzoneri, local contender for the bantamweight title today had added another name to the list of his knockout victims. It took him only three rounds to put away Harold Smith of Chicago in their bout here last night.

Andre Routis, French featherweight, outpointed Carl Tremaine of Cleveland in ten rounds. The Frenchman was Tremaine's master in both boxing and slugging. In the first two rounds Tremaine battered the Frenchman's jaw and body with savage punches, but Routis came back stronger than ever.

Jack Dempsey Declares Himself; Says He Will Meet Any Man Except Paolino

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, April 26—Jack Dempsey has declared himself. He is coming back.

The writer learned this today on unimpeachable authority and the same source of information disclosed the fact that Dempsey will bar no man, except Paolino, the latter being deemed unworthy of the ex-champion's consideration.

I understand, too, that Dempsey's announcement has been in the hands of Tex Rickard for at least three weeks and that the promoter, with a mysterious intimation today that he will have "an important announcement about Dempsey later in the week," merely is withholding the news until the cloak and suit men will be unable to stand the suspense no longer. Rickard, it seems, is to be found guilty again of the charge of being a first class showman.

Normile Coming East

Further evidence for the indictment in question was furnished this morning when he informed the boys that a certain "mysterious stranger" was enroute East to represent Dempsey. The gentleman in question is Gene Normile, who is about as mysterious as a billboard advertisement.

Normile will remain in New York as a contact between Dempsey and Rickard until such time as Jack decides to forsake California for the land of the sap, which is here. My information today is that Dempsey will reach New York about five days before the Jimmy Maloney-Jack Sharkey fight scheduled for May 19.

The "work" will then go in for Dempsey to challenge the winner, with the ultimate survivor to go on to the championship meeting with Tunney. Rickard previously has held out for Dempsey to meet Paolino, so that he would have two sets of finalists and an alternate challenger in the event that neither Maloney nor Sharkey shows anything but the right idea. But Dempsey has read Paolino right off the gallows.

What Would He Gain?

"What would I get in meeting that guy?" he is quoted as having demanded of friends. "I can't prove anything by licking him. I'll be willing to take on the Sharkey-Maloney winner as the best man in the field and then go after Tunney."

However, I understand Dempsey's objection to Paolino is not based altogether on ethical grounds, although there are few prize fighters who really can take their ethics or let them alone. Still sordid commercialism must enter into the situation at times and it does so here in this way:

Dempsey realizes that the best he can get out of a champion hip fight is about $200,000, even if he won from Tunney. He, therefore, figures to make much more out of his next bout, provided the opponent is right. He doesn't think Paolino would draw enough to make the thing worth his while and after him.

Million Dollar Gates

On the other hand, he believes that either Sharkey or Maloney would help him bring in a million dollar gate and, being the key man of the situation, he will insist on a cut of 37½ per cent of $375,000. In brief, the boy is thinking in very critical figures, as always.

If he can make his present plans stand up, he will have at least a half million dollars to show for his comeback and he fondly believes—the fifth.

Harding High Sophomores To Play Vocational Outfit On Central Junior Field

Complete Schedule Will Be Presented by Dewey Bohyer Wednesday; Seven Teams in Newly-Formed League; Will Play Until End of Present School Year

THE Sophomores were to play the Vocational of Harding High at 4 o'clock this afternoon on the Central Junior High diamond in the first recreational ball game of the new league formed at Harding High a few days ago.

Interest in the league has grown and a complete schedule will be made public Wednesday by Dewey Bohyer, instructor at Harding High, who has charge of the event.

When the league was first formed, only six teams were entered but the Vocationals of Harding High organized an outfit and were also placed in the association. Other teams in the organization are the Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors of Harding High, the Bendix, Vernon Heights, and Central Junior High.

Central Juniors Organize

Central Juniors organized a few days ago and elected Eddie Ruzzo to captain the team. The boys practiced last night and showed pep and snap that will make some of the Harding High teams step right along if they expect to make any headway in the league. Practically the same boys that took part in basketball at Central Junior are playing on the recreational ball team.

This is the first year for recreational ball among the various classes of Harding and Junior high schools in Marion. The league was organized by popular vote of those who were to take part. Baseball has always been the sport for the classes in the spring and the Juniors and Seniors each have a baseball team in addition to their other outfits.

Most of the league games, if not all, will be played on the Central Junior High diamond immediately after school or various afternoons of the week. It has not yet been decided how many games will be played by each team in the league before the season closes and the winner of the association is decided.

All teams are organized and several have held a number of practice games, it was reported today. Many of those now on the various squads are out for track in high school but the recreational ball has been arranged in order to prevent a conflict between the two sports.

One of the most successful spring seasons ever seen at Harding High and among the public schools is expected this year, athletic instructors indicate today.

PICKED TO SHINE FOR PENN

By NORMAN E. BIGWN

Philadelphia, April 26—(Special.)—The greatest aggregation of college milers entered for a meet for many years will compete in the thirty-third annual University of Pennsylvania Relay Carnival, April 29, 30.

The milers will not compete in their special event, but will run the distance in the four-mile relay championship race, a feature of the two-day carnival. Four western conference teams and fourteen others from all parts of the eastern seaboard, will face the starter.

For eleven years the record established by a Cornell quartet has stood the test. The Ithacans stepped the distance in 17 minutes, 51 1-5 seconds and only once since then, in 1922, has a team finished under 18 minutes. Singularly it was another Cornell team that made the time of 17 minutes 56 3-5 seconds.

Illinois, Ohio State, Wisconsin and Minnesota are the four western conference teams ready to test their speed against the east. Penn State, last year's winner, is the favorite for the event with two of last year's team available and with Bill Cox, indoor one-mile intercollegiate champion and cross country champion a member of the team.

Roger Fouracre and J. Stewart, who ran on the winning team last year, will run along with Cox, and either Offenhauser or J. Reis. All four-milers can do well under 4 minutes 30 seconds.

PREPARING FOR CLASS MEET TO BE HELD SOON

Ready for Race Track After Two Weeks of Drilling at Central Junior

HARDING HIGH athletes for the various class track and field teams were to hold their first practice at the fairground tonight after two weeks' training in the vicinity of the Central Junior High grounds.

They expect to make use of the race track although it will be a poor excuse for a cinder path which any of the boys that go to the district meet at Delaware will find. The fairgrounds will also permit use of the javelin. The last time in academics south beyond that arcade at Central Junior High, it struck the hard ground and broke.

The class meet will probably be held next week after school some day. Those who show up well in this meet will be given a chance at a few honors in the Central Ohio district track and field meet at Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, a week from Saturday.

Bud Lewis Out

Bud Lewis, football star, is out for track. Last night Bud spent most of his time perfecting the running broad jump and was making some splendid marks. He stepped long enough to sprint the 100 yard dash with a few of the other track men. Mabe, Hinkle and Lewis hit the tape at the same instant on the 100-yards. The time was rather slow due to a strong west wind against which they were running.

Bud Crum is vaulting and high jumping and Chuck Evans and Garrett are doing the same. Most of those men listed, however, are trying out at about everything seen on the field specializing in what they like best.

There are a number of others out including Ralph Hinklin, Hughie Shaw, McAninch, Cline and promising relay men.

Discus Fascinates

The discus throw seems to have a certain fascination for the Harding High crew this season. They all make a stab at that event—but, alas, with little success. The boys in the vicinity of the majority of would-be discus throwers must constantly be on their guard for their lives. The steel discus is liable to fly in almost any direction when the field performers give it a heave. But, as always, there are exceptions, and we do find several promising candidates for the position.

The boys are already making plans for the district meet. A number of them attended the Ohio Relays Saturday to get an idea of what kind of competition they would have at Delaware.

Track this year is attracting more attention than ever before, and, equipped with the material that appears to be springing up from every class in Harding High, the locals should make a showing at Delaware, and even travel to the state meet at Columbus the latter part of May.

The very dogs have a grudge against a sooty town. They have to be washed oftener.

Every man is working towards something he wants. That's what makes the world so varied and interesting.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventures

BY JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

was warm this morning when I to let Jubilee down out of the by the rope in his teeth, and I kicked all the covers off the bed. I made it up that when I got done and feeding my face I was to stick around till my father ankle had went to work and ast mother if I might go barefoot. I knew she would let me if I stuck to her long enough. But whilst I was the barn and the bunch was there I began to feel kinda chillish, and Peanuts looked out the barn door and said it was snowing, and we all went and looked, and he was right. The wind was coming out of the north and there was a blue norther.

He went over frontwards

I got so cold going from the barn to the house that if I had of had the kind of teeth my grandfather has got they would of rattled so I would of took them out of my face and put them in my pocket or let Jubilee carry them. So I did not ast to go barefoot. I asked my grandfather what he thought of the weather, and he looked at me kinda suprized, and then all at once my mother spoke up and said if she ever caught me listening to that kind of language she would skin me alive. I bet I would look like an Indian if I was skun, but I would not like to try it.

My grandfather said he had ordered some lumber and was going to make Annabelle Lee a swing if the sun came out, and it came out whilst we were in school, so when school let out we all licked for our house, and the lumber had come and he had made the swing.

I told Peanuts she should be the first to swing, and she was holding on and setting in the swing, and I had pulled her as far back as I could and was all ready to let go as soon as my grandfather had picked up his tools and moved the sawhorses; and he had just stooped for his square and his back was toward us when Feeble tickled me under both arms, and Peanuts feet hit my grandfather, one on each hind pocket and he went over frontwards with his stummick acrosst one saw-horse and his neck acrosst the other.

Feeble ran and helped him stand up and told him she was sorry he fell down, and he put his spectacles back on and looked at her over the tops of them, and she looked crosseyed, and he took his teeth out and looked to see if they were cracked, and put them back in his face and went in the house without saying anything. I was surprised.

Peter's Adventures

A Story for Boys and Girls

BY FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

HOUSEKEEPING IN CHIPMUNK TOWN

If Peter had not thought Blue Lizard's tail worth anything before he certainly did now. When Mrs. Tamias and the other Chipmunk heard that he had it what a fuss they made! Chitter, chitter! Chatter, chatter!

"Here, wait a moment," cried he at last. "I can never answer all your questions if you make such a noise as this. It was given to me, the all was, and by Blue Lizard himself. No, I have never yet tried its power. Yes, I am going to sometime. But say, what's the use in talking so much about it! I am your friend and you will always find me true. Now, if you are satisfied as to that, suppose you treat me like one. I never saw a Chipmunk's bedroom and I should very much like to. Am I going to have a chance?"

THERE WAS SOMETHING SO MOTHERLY LOOKING ABOUT HER

Now Mrs. Chipmunk could not be cordial enough.

"To think I should have doubted the owner of a Blue Lizard's tail," mourned she. "Never in my life have I been so stupid! If I had not been all upset by waiting for my husband after hearing that Fox was at the door I should have known at once that you were to be trusted. That, so I have heard, is one of the things that the Blue Tail does for the one who has it—makes every beast of the field and forest take him on trust at sight. Of course, you shall see our bedroom, Boy! Here it is at the right. I was just tidying up when you came."

Turning back into the room out of which she had darted at hearing the two brother Chipmunks approaching she led the boy about the chamber.

"Now, this is our bed," said Mrs. Chipmunk, proudly, pointing to a heap of dried grass in one corner. "I'll bet you a checkerberry that there is no more comfortable one anywhere. I have found out that if Mr. Chipmunk is to be kept in good temper he must have his rest, and how can he rest if the bed is bumpy? When the grass becomes broken and prickly I throw it away and bring in some more.

"And here is where the children sleep," Mrs. Chipmunk pointed to some smaller mats along the sides of the room. "There are six kiddies, you know, every one of them as fine and spry Chipmunks as you can find in all the country. They spend so much time snoozing—poor youngsters, they do get so tired from eating now that it is winter—that I am most particular about their bedding.

Now to Peter these little rounds heaps of dried grass didn't look much like the beds he was used to. He would not have cared to sleep upon them unless he was very, very tired, indeed. But he was too polite to say so. So Peter only laughed as he answered:

"I haven't had a chance to speak till now, but I can't keep still any longer. You are a wonderful housekeeper, Mrs. Chipmunk. I quite agree with you that there can be no better in all Chipmunk Town!"

Home Treatment For Gall Stones Highly Praised

Reports from Many Grateful Users Say It Saved Them an Operation. Pleasant and Inexpensive to Use.

For over a year now, many drug stores throughout the middle west have been recommending an inexpensive tablet called "Klax-Ko" for the successful home treatment of gall stones, gall bladder trouble and hepatic torpidity.

According to written reports the simple home use of "Klax-Ko" tablets has produced wonderfully beneficial results in hundreds of cases. Men and women of all ages, but particularly those in middle life seem to be especially benefited. One man says—"I suffered greatly from gall stone and liver trouble. Doctor said I must have an operation. The night before I was scheduled for the hospital a friend insisted I try "Klax-Ko" tablets first. I commenced to feel better and in a few days was out of the house and back to work and I haven't ever had an attack since, I surely am grateful for Klax-Ko."

If you are bothered by dizzy spells, headaches, shortness of breath, gas in stomach and bowels, pressure or sharp pains in right side that often shoot through to the back, coated tongue, bad breath, lack of ambition, weakness, nervousness and restless nights, you should give "Klax-Ko" tablets a trial at once, and you are invited to do so without slightest risk of cost unless fully pleased with results. Ask Bradley Drug Store or any good druggist for Klax-Ko today.—Adv.

No Trick At All During Own Your Own Home Week!

Put down the amount of rent you pay each month, multiply it by 12, then by the number of years you've rented. The answer will be "Rent Receipts equals Nothing." Yet that amount would have paid for a comfortable attractive home, whose value was increasing while you got FREE rent.

Today and every day during Own Your Own Home Week in The Star's Want Ad section are hundreds of good buys on low down payments and easy terms. Pick the house you want. Then ACT.

STOCKS GAIN DESPITE REACTIONARY EFFORTS

Speculative Groups Recover Good Share of Yesterday's Losses

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

Railroad stocks irregular. Industrial stocks irregular. Domestic bonds fairly steady. Foreign bonds irregular. Call money 4 per cent, grain steady. Copper steady. Oil weak. Cotton irregular. Rubber steady. Sugar steady. Pig iron steady. Foreign exchange irregular.

New York, April 26—Speculative stocks recovered a good part of Monday's losses in an active and confident rally today. The gains in many stocks were acquired in spite of further withdrawals of bank funds from the call loan market, and strenuous efforts of the professionals to extend the reaction which was in progress at yesterday's close.

The market was unsettled in the first hour or two by the selling of stocks in weakly-margined accounts. Universal of stop-loss orders also forced a considerable volume of the highly speculative shares on the market; but after these stocks had been absorbed the whole list stiffened with the railroad equipment and public utility stocks leading the rally.

Not much improvement was looked for in the oil stocks, but moderate short covering of the shares which have tumbled from the high levels of the year resulted in a number of fractional advances. New price cuts were announced in retail gasoline in New England. Standard Oil companies also reduced prices of export gasoline and kerosene.

There was little doubt that the directors of the steel corporation would make the total outstanding stocks of the corporation a seven per cent stock at their meeting at the close of the market. Forecasts of earnings placed net around $4 a share in the first quarter of 1927.

Speculative interest was directed to a number of the low-priced non-dividend railroad stocks, which moved upward briskly under the lead of Chicago Great Western, common and preferred. The St. Paul stocks sold in volume and the southwestern rails were active and firm. Lima locomotive was the feature of the railroad equipment group, with active trading above 976, while Baldwin, after an early rally, dropped back to lower levels.

Kindness Rules U. S. Attitude Toward Nations, Says Coolidge

ADDRESS GIVEN BEFORE EDITORS BY PRESIDENT

Chief Executive Sees Amicable Adjustment with Mexico; Touches on China

Washington, April 26—President Coolidge returned here this morning from an overnight trip to New York, where, in a speech, he took occasion to clarify America's policy with respect to Mexico, China and Nicaragua.

Speaking at the twentieth anniversary dinner of the United Press, the executive reviewed the situation in these three turbulent countries and assured the several hundred newspaper editors present that "kindliness" rules this government's attitude toward the other nations of the world.

PRES. COOLIDGE

Touching on the Mexican problem, Mr. Coolidge announced that in a private conversation with the Mexican ambassador he had received assurances that Mexico would refrain from confiscating American property and would be most diligent in prosecuting and punishing any and all who commit outrages on American citizens.

Sees Adjustment

The president expressed confidence that an "amicable adjustment" with Mexico would follow which would prevent any interference with our rights of friendship.

Mr. Coolidge was not definite however, on his insistence that American life and property in foreign lands would be protected at small cost. China, he said, was embroiled in an internal conflict that threatened continued to "temporarily" have "disorderly element," which would endanger American nationals.

It is only to protect our citizens from such elements that warships and marines remain in the orient, he continued. There is no more authoritative saying that the United States is waiting on China than to say that a policeman is waiting on all of the citizens he meets on the streets, the president declared.

The same was held to be true with respect to Nicaragua. The Monroe doctrine, the president said, must, and will be enforced, especially when the conditions of Latin America are beset with difficulties.

"The recent period," declared the executive, "has brought America into a new position in the world. We shall have to bear the inevitable enthusiasm and try to discharge the inevitable obligations which arise from this condition."

"Because some others have pursued that course, it may be feared that we shall embark upon a program of military aggrandizement. Such, however, is not the spirit of the American people. The world knows that the whole genius of America always calls it to the support of the universal rights of humanity."

H. W. SMITH FUNERAL

Funeral services for Henry Wellington Smith, found dead in bed Sunday at his home, 318 Patton-st, were held at the C. E. Curtis & Co. Undertaking Chapel at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Burial was in Marion Cemetery.

UNDERGOES OPERATION

David Morris, 678 N. Main-st, underwent an abdominal operation at City Hospital this morning.

MOOSE ORDERS FINISH PLANS FOR MEMORIAL

Annual Services Will Be Held Wednesday Night; Principal Speaker Chosen

Arrangements for the annual memorial services of Marion Lodge No. 889, Loyal Order of Moose and Marion Chapter, No. 118, Women of the Moosehearts Legion, to be held Wednesday night, were completed at the weekly session of Marion Lodge No. 889 last night. Installation of officers for the coming year was also a feature of the meeting.

The memorial address is to be given by Rev. J. Russell Cretcher, who is the first graduate of Mooseheart, the orders home and training school for boys and girls, to enter the ministry. He is completing a theological course at Albion College and will graduate in June.

Reverend Cretcher is reported to be a young man who is remarkably gifted as an orator. He will discuss the work being done in behalf of young people at Mooseheart in his address here.

Public Invited

In order that the public may become better acquainted with the memorial being performed at Mooseheart, the local lodge has invited the public to hear Reverend Cretcher's talk, the invitation being addressed especially to members of local church and fraternal organizations.

The program, to be given in the Moose hall on E. Church-st, will begin at 8:15 o'clock.

Officers of the lodge installed last night are Clarence Parr, dictator; C. H. Krisher, vice dictator; L. J. Malone, prelate; F. E. Guthery, trustee for three years; O. B. Fridely, treasurer; H. H. Hoffman, outer guard; Elza Keelon, inner guard, Bert Deyson, sergeant at arms; R. J. Muskall, delegate to the Philadelphia grand lodge convention.

The installation ceremony was in charge of John Butts, past dictator.

He died of complications of diseases following a three weeks illness at his home in Stockton. He lived west of Green Camp until 35 years ago. Burial was in the Stockton Cemetery.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Christina Ada Wollinger and two sons, Harry and Frank Wollinger, all of Stockton.

Mrs. Orley Conners was removed from City Hospital to her home, 467 Scranton-av, yesterday afternoon in the Hess, Markert & Axe invalid car. She underwent observational treatment.

Central Figure In Trial, Ruth Snyder Proves Amazing Study In Psychology

COURTHOUSE, Long Island City, April 26—Ruth Brown Snyder's courtroom demeanor under the fire of the heavy guns of the state, is proving an amazing study in psychology and one of the most interesting phases of the trial of this blonde, black garbed woman defendant and her lover, Henry Judd Gray for the brutal slaying of her husband, Albert Snyder.

Every other person in the courtroom dis grees about this woman. She has been described as coldeyed, icy, lacking in emotion. Others contend she is the embodiment of passion itself but shielding her true nature by remarkable self control.

"To me he seem to be a flaming volcano," said David Belasco, famous impresario, himself a life long student in human emotions. "She is the embodiment of passion. She fairly pulses with emotion but hides it with the skill of an actress."

Animated Figure

Behind a mask of stone, she sits for at this stage of life.

As the state hurries forward witness after witness to tighten the noose of evidence about her, Mrs. Snyder sits before the jury as unconcerned animated bronze—almost challenging. Confident and cool a few days ago when the case were going about the tedious selection of jurors, she today gave the impression that she is fully awakened to combat.

Details of the murder and the plotting that preceded it remain from the lips of a varied procession of witnesses—bellhops, detectives, an insurance agent, an hotel office manager, a letter carrier and others come her blue-green eyes to rove and at times fairly snap.

Varied Emotions

Occasionally she shakes her head with an emphatic "no" as she disagrees with a witness and her face grows gay to see friends in the audience and she returns their greetings with a smile of appreciation or cheer, as the case and the results.

She is easily the center of every stirring drama that is being staged each day in the big criminal courts building. Her every movement, every change of facial expression, the tiers of spectators never lose sight of her.

Confident of Acquittal

From the beginning, counsel for both the prosecution and defense looked to Ruth's every move and word for signs of encouragement or despair. Whenever Assistant District Attorney Thomas Farrington Moore, who is prosecuting the case, made a point against the defendant, counsel for the defense looked to Ruth for a reaction. Whenever Samuel Leibowitz, chief counsel for the defense, made a point, counsel for the prosecution looked to Ruth for a reaction.

Ruth has given them both what they looked for. Her face has been a mirror of her emotions. She has smiled when the defense has scored and frowned when the prosecution has scored.

Ruth has been a model prisoner. She has been quiet, attentive, and has given no trouble to her guards. She has been allowed to receive visitors and has had many. Her mother, Mrs. Emma Brown, has been a frequent visitor. Her sister, Mrs. Jessie Guldensuppe, has been another frequent visitor. Her brother, Frank Brown, has been another visitor. Her sister, Mrs. Lillian Brown, has been another visitor.

Ruth has received flowers from admirers. She has received letters from admirers. She has received gifts from admirers. She has received cards from admirers. She has received telegrams from admirers. She has received telephone calls from admirers. She has received visits from admirers. She has received letters from admirers. She has received flowers from admirers. ## COUNCIL PROVIDES FOR SEWAGE PLANT REPAIRS

Legislation Passed Granting Sum of $1,100 To Recondition Facilities

To prevent a recurrence of the damage to the disposal plant which resulted from flood during the recent heavy rains, City Council last night passed legislation providing for repairs amounting to approximately $1,100. Without these repairs, Supt. F. G. Browne told council the danger of serious damage should another flood occur, was acute. By a miracle, Mr. Browne said, a 12-inch farm drain tile which he now asks be enclosed in concrete, held during the recent flood and prevented a complete flooding of deep valve pit as well as the furnace room ventilator, which would have resulted in a complete floop of the plant. The legislation provides that the wall surrounding the deep valve pit and the furnace room ventilator be increased in height, that the deep valve pit be waterproofed that the sludge bed covers be painted and that ground washed away from the final tank slope be replaced.

LEGISLATION COMPLETED FOR CHANGING HYDRANTS

Fifteen Transfers Provided for in Resolution Passed by City Council

With the passage of a resolution by City Council last night providing for the changing of 15 fire hydrants from a four to a six-inch size, legislation for changing 50 hydrants provided for in the franchise of The Marion Water Co., adopted by council last year, was completed. The hydrants included in the resolution passed last night are Nos. 50, 89 and 97 on S. Main-st; 59, 310 and 311 on N. Main-st, 51 at State and Main-sts; 241 on Davids-st; 290 on S. State-st; 519 on Cauby-et and 313, 314, 315 and 316 on W. Center-st. The work of changing the hydrants will start in a short time, Fire Chief McFarland stated this morning.

Close Marion-Delaware-rd Between Here and Waldo For Reconstruction Work

Southbound Traffic Detoured Through Prospect and Radnor; Northbound Travel Directed East of Waldo Over Richland-pk; Operations Under Way

The Marion Delaware-rd was closed to traffic between this city and Waldo yesterday and detour routes have been established by the local division headquarters of the state highway department. Paving construction on the road between the two points a distance of about 10 miles, is now under way and it is expected that through traffic will be shut off until early in the fall, Division Engineer G. C. Snyder of the highway department announced today.

South-bound traffic is to be detoured at the intersection of Superior-st and Delaware-av west to Prospect-st, thence south through Prospect and Radnor to Delaware.

North-bound traffic will be routed east at Waldo and north from there into the city of Marion over the Richland pike.

Good Detours Planned

Both detour routes, Snyder says, are to be kept in the best of condition under state supervision, causing as little inconvenience as possible to the public. The south-bound detour adds about three and a half miles to the traveling distance between Marion and Delaware and the north-bound route only about one and a half miles.

This improvement project is one of the largest constructed in the county in recent years the cost totaling approximately $216,000, all but a small portion of which is to be paid by the state.

Although some preliminary work has been done, the major portion of the construction is to be completed this year.

Aside from the Harding Memorial section of the road, which extends to a point 1,150 feet south of the city, the paving is to be 20 feet in width, consisting of a 14-foot center section of Kentucky rock and three-foot concrete borders on both sides. The paving will be laid on a 30-foot roadbed centering a 60-foot right-of-way.

Memorial Section

The Harding Memorial section of the paving is to be 31 feet in width, the same as the width of Delaware-av with which the memorial road will connect.

The memorial section, which is being built by P. Drake & Sons, local contractors, will cost $25,660. Work on this section is progressing rapidly and the contractors expect to begin pouring concrete in about two weeks.

It also will be necessary to close the Marion Delaware-rd between Waldo and Norton later, Engineer Snyder states. This section of the highway is partly completed and the blockade there will be of comparatively brief duration.

State highway markers directing traffic over the detour routes established between this city and Waldo were installed here and at other points in the district yesterday by state highway employes under Snyder's supervision.

STATE SUPREME COURT CONSIDERING TEST CASE

Violation Case Defendant Seeks To Prevent Mayor from Hearing Case

Columbus, April 26—Members of the Ohio supreme court today had under consideration a test case involving interpretation of the decree, issued some weeks ago by the U. S. supreme court, invalidating Ohio statues affecting jurisdiction of village mayors.

The case under consideration is that of Jacob Grdina, who has applied for a writ of prohibition to prevent Mayor Charles R. Ely, Euclid Village, Cuyahoga County, from trying the case in which Grdina was accused of violating a traffic ordinance.

In his petition, filed in the supreme court, Grdina claimed the mayor should be barred from hearing the case, in view of the federal supreme court decision, because the mayor "has a direct, personal, substantial pecuniary interest in reaching a finding of guilty, by reason of the fact that the levying of heavy fines, part of which may be used by the village for improvements and the reduction of taxes of said village, rebound to the benefit of the village to such an extent that the mayor is incompetent and disqualified to try such action."
